Reorganization of the Departments.

At the extra session of the Senate in March last, the following resolution was introduced by Mr. Hunter, of Virginia, and adopted, we believe, without opposition.

"IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES, ? " March 7, 1851.

" Resolved, That the Secretaries of State, of the Treasury, of the Interior, of War, of the Navy, and the Postmaster General, be directed to report to the Senate, at the next Session of Congress, some plan of classifying the clerks in those Departments, for apportioning their sala-ries according to their services, and for equali-zing the salaries of the clerks of the same grade sh of the Departments; and, also, some plan to provide for a fair and impartial exami-nation of the qualifications of clerks, and for mother. omoting them from one grade to another on a due regard to qualifications and services."

In conformity with this resolution, the Secretary of the Treasury has called upon the chiefs of the several Bureaus for their views fully and in detail upon the subject. The other heads of Departments have doubtless made a similar Congress, we trust, will go much farther than any Secretary will recommend in such a movement; yet no farther than the clerks in office and the people of the country will desire to see them go. Nothing less than the abridgment of the appointing, and especially the removing, power will ever suffice.

MESSES. EDITORS: I think you are mistake in giving to Mr. Corwin the credit of curing the lame, the halt and the blind connected with the Treasury Department. As one of the clerks connected with the Third Auditor's bureau, (Gallaher's,) I felt indignant that such rules should be prescribed, and in course of my investigations and confabs ascertained that the cription" in question was not general, but "prescription" in question was not general, but attached only to the office of the Third Auditor. This naturally made me desirous of knowing why such an order should be addressed to our bureau only. On inquiry at the proper quar-ter, I found that the Auditor, Mr. Gallaher made verbal complaints that some of his clerks neglected their business,—by shamming sickness, or by being absent for no assignable cause,—or employed their time in reading newspapers and visiting bar-rooms during office

Mr. Secretary Corwin requested him to report all such by name, and they should be re-moved, regardless of politics. This Mr. Galla-her declined, and finally induced Mr. Corwin to subscribe to the prescription prepared by him-

It is high time that such heads of bureaus should have a prescription prepared for them. If Mr. Gallaher has some half-dozen, or so, unprincipled clerks, let him have the manliness to report them for removal if they heed not his caution; but not go whining about, and pro-curing stringent and offensive regulations, or, as it may be, "prescriptions" applying to all, because he has not the moral courage and honesty to punish those who are a disgrace to the office. He submitted the prescription to the Secretary, accompanied by a report of the state of the patient; and although pressed to give the precise locale to the disease, would not, and therefore he deserves the cognomen of QUACK DOCTOR.

So then, Mr. Corwin is clear out of it. Nov that is pleasant! The public have condemned the prescription, and a clerk of Mr. Gallaher's bureau, but who received or holds his place from Mr. Corwin, has of course disinterestedly interfered to fix the act upon the real author But why did Mr. Corwin, when in Ohio, boast of this prescription as his own ingenious device? Why did he there hold up to the contempt of the world all the clerks of that Department, and boast of the efficacy of his specific for the lounging stipendiaries of the Treasury? It was then to envelope him in a blaze of glory! Now it is unpopular-and somebody

Mr. Gallaher is a faithful and efficient officer, who performs his duty without either bragging or "whining." He has well and honorably sustained himself in every position he has hitherto occupied; and the affairs of his bureau will at this moment stand the test of the closest scrutiny. He is, however, always capable of vindicating himself.

GOLD-PLATING .- The work done by Messrs. Nuper & Burgee is of a very superior quality. Mountings for canes, &c., manufactured and plated by them, are highly admired. They have presented to us a handsome cane, mounted in most exquisite style; and we have seen other specimens that do them great credit. If the beauty and cheapness of their products were known to the public the demand for them would be very great. See the advertisement.

VIRGINIA LANDS .- The "Major Scott Farm, in Loudoun county, Va., consisting of twelve hundred acres, was sold by Dyer & McGuire, on the 4th instant, for $12,455. It is said to be good river bottom and timbered land, having a storehouse right on the Potomac, from which boats can be loaded and taken direct to market. The price is considered very low. WM. SELDEN is the purchaser.

A THREAT .- The Southern Press is informed on good authority, that the Captain-general of Cuba, Concha, recently told one of our naval officers that if it was necessary to secure the Spanish authority in Cuba, the slaves would be liberated and armed against the patriots, and the guns of Moro castle would be turned on Havana. We doubt that any affection of Spain for Havana would prevent this, and this threat ought to be sufficient to blow the whole Spanish authority sky-high. But that must soon be done any how.

The Baltimore Sun unites with the Republic in a just tribute to the skill and ability of J. W. SHEAHAN, esq., by whom the Day trial has been so ably reported for the latter journal. Trial of John Day.

Yesterday afternoon the jury asked to be discharged, stating that they could not agree. Judge Crawford said the Court had no power to discharge them.

At ten minutes after five o'clock, the Intelligencer states the jury returned into court. The clerk called for their verdict, when Mr. Samuel Wardell, their foreman, in a firm tone, but evidently under the influence of deep feeling, replied, handing a paper to the clerk, "Guilty as indicted, with this recommendation." The paper disclosed the fact that John Day had been found guilty of the murder of his wife, and was accompanied with a recommendation to the Executive for a commutation of his punishment.

The Court.-The Executive has no such ower.

Mr. Bradley .- The penalty is death. The District Attorney asked to have the ver lict recorded.

Mr. Bradley called for the polling of the jury The Clerk then proceeded to call the names and Notley L. Adams, Edmund Bradford, Sam' Wardell, and John D. Scrivener, each rose as his name was called and audibly responded Guilty. Charles Mann was next called, who replied Not Guilty. Whereupon the jury were ordered to return to their chamber.

During these proceedings the prisoner, who has throughout evinced a gayety of manner unusual and surprising, sunk back. His pale countenance and evident agitation doubtless formed a true index of the state of his feelings.

Soon after the retirement of the jury they sent another message to the Court, to ascertain whether or not they could change their recommendation to Executive clemency, instead of a commutation of punishment; which was replied to in the affirmative.

At three o'clock to-day no verdict had een rendered.

Ica .- The keeping of ice from one morning to the other, during the warm weather, when it is most desirable to preserve it, is a matter of some importance to housekeepers. An exchange paper says that the blanket, so commonly used, s inefficient and next to useless, for so soon as it becomes wet, it rather assists than retards the melting of the ice. The best preservation is saw-dust, and this may be kept in the yard or cellar in an open box. Half a peck in this way will last longer than a peck in a blanket.

ELECTION NEWS.

Louisville, August 5 .- The returns of the election come in very slowly and indicate a close run for Governor. Marshall (Whig) is believed to be elected in the 7th District by a small majority. Stanton (Dem.) is certainly chosen in the 10th.

Prenchers in Office.

To the Editors of the American Telegraph. GENTLEMEN: The communications of "Com-centator" have of late become so indifferent that I have not read them for some days past; but this morning my attention was called to his article in your paper of yesterday headed "No Clerk," &c., in which appears the following: "A clerk in office informs me that he and another clerk, who has been a Methodist preacher, have a list of twenty-four Methodist preachers in office at this time in the Executive Departments." It was suggested to me by the individual, who called my attention to the article, that I was the person alluded to as "another that I was the person alluded to as "another clerk who had been a Methodist preacher," who also remarked that he was not alone in his opinion. If I am, (and you can ascertain from "Commentator,") you will oblige me by giving place to this communication in your columns, as the inference might very easily be drawn, that the "clerk who has been a Methodist preacher" was deposed from his office, and in revenge has united with "Commentator" in assailing the "Methodist preachers in office."

I do not care about knowing who "Commentator" is, or who his informing "clerk" is. It is sufficient to show that he is sadly at loss for something to write about when he makes assertions without possessing a proper knowledge of his subject, and that, too, when he might so easily have called on me for the truth of what he was about to publish. I have not, never had, and from my knowledge of the "Methodist preachers in office," am not able to make a "list" such as he speaks of; and if he calculates on adding from that "list" "ten or more to the list" of twelve or fourteen which he challenges "No Clerk" to produce, he will find himself much mistaken. challenges "No Clerk" to produce, he will find challenges "No Clerk" to produce, he will find himself much mistaken.

It is well known, by at least one of you, gentlemen, that I am in the habit of speaking my mind freely upon any and every topic which may be introduced where I am, when I can engage in the conversation without violating the rules of propriety and it may be that the ules of propriety; and it may be, that in the discussion of the propriety or impropriety of Methodist preachers taking office, I have ex-pressed myself upon the subject and been mis-understood by "a clerk in office," as subscribing to such sentiments as those entertained by 'Commentator;" and it may be that " a clerk in office" has heard me name such ministers as I knew, and he may have taken them to add to his list; but certain am I, that I never made such wholesale denunciations of Methodist ministers as might be inferred from "Commentator's" lugging me into his communications; nor, as I said before, have I ever made that list The opinions I entertain are, and always were, that no Methodist minister of suitable talents for his calling, and a constitution sufficient for the work in which he is engaged, ought to abandon his circuit or station for the purpose of taking office. But I am far from excluding such as find themselves unable, either physically or mentally, to perform the labori-ous duties of a Methodist preacher, from holdng "office in the Executive Departments," or from engaging in any other honest and honorable calling. The latter class are, I think, the nore numerous.

But there is another item in the account which "Commentator," in his anxiety to find fault with the Administration, entirely overooks-if he ever knew it; unless he may have adverted to it in one of his last communications, which, as I have already said, I have not read, viz: The Methodist church considers it proper to make what are called "local preachers" of some of its members, whose circumstances will not justify their entering a conference, taking charge of a circuit or station. Of this class several hold "office in the Executive Departments," and some of them as messengers; so that when "Commentator" comes to make proper deductions from his "list," he will find he has few left.

In conclusion, with regard to my being a "clerk, who has been a Methodist preacher," allow me to say, what is known to many in this city, that I never held other than a local preacher's license; that I never joined the Conference, (though it was my wish and intention to have done so,) and that I was not deprived of my license, but by voluntary resignation. I was employed, as a travelling preacher, by the Presiding Elder, seven months on one and four months on another circuit of different character; but finding my const unfitted for the work, and after consulting with older ministers, I returned to my home, made the statement to my quarterly Conference, which gave me my license, resigned the same, and returned to the ranks of private member-

Regretting the necessity of thus trespassing upon your columns, allow me to express the wish that when "Commentator" again refers to me, or any one else unknown to him, he will do so in a less ambiguous manner.

Very respectfully yours, &c., J. W. DEEBLE. WASHINGTON, Aug. 5, 1851.
